

INDEPENDENT AUDIT · UNPAID · VERIFIED FROM LIVE PAGE SOURCE

SAC Attorneys LLP

sacattorneys.com · San Jose, CA · July 2026

SAC Attorneys LLP handles business and immigration matters for Silicon Valley clients — work that regularly involves sensitive personal and financial data. Two issues stood out on a pass through the live site.

HIGH · ANALYTICS INTEGRITY

Hardcoded Google Analytics linker parameter in the Spanish-site link

The homepage's Español navigation item points to the firm's Spanish-language subdomain with a Google Analytics cross-domain linker parameter written directly into the HTML:

```
https://abogado.sacattorneys.com/?_gl=1*nhwzhf*_gc1_au*MTA4MjgyNzk4OS4xNzE1MDA4ODQ1
```

That _gl value is meant to be generated fresh per visitor session so Analytics can stitch a single visit together across the two domains. Baked into the page source as a static string, it instead stamps every visitor who clicks through to the Spanish site with the same stale session ID — which quietly corrupts cross-domain attribution and session data for the firm's Spanish-speaking traffic, likely their fastest-growing segment.

WORTH A SECOND LOOK · SITE CONSOLIDATION

Chinese-language site lives on a separate, unbranded domain

The Chinese-language navigation link routes off sacattorneys.com entirely to mysvlawyers.com — a different domain with no visible connection back to the SAC Attorneys brand. If this is intentional (a sister practice), no issue. If it's a leftover from an older site structure, it means a meaningful share of prospective clients land on a page that doesn't reinforce who they're contacting.

Findings verified against live page source on the audit date above. Site platform: Justia Elevate.

ZenMasterWorks audits live sites for exactly this kind of thing — the bugs that don't show up until someone actually looks. Read this audit online, with sources, at <https://www.zenmasterworks.com/audits/audit-sac-attorneys.html>

Request a free audit of your own site: zenmasterworks.com — we build first; you pay only if you love it.