

INDEPENDENT AUDIT • UNPAID • VERIFIED FROM LIVE PAGE SOURCE

Silicon Valley Law Group

svlg.com • San Jose, CA • July 2026

SVLG markets itself on deep technical fluency — a firm built specifically to serve Silicon Valley technology companies, with a full practice area dedicated to information security. That makes a broken piece of their own homepage a harder thing to wave off.

MEDIUM • BROKEN CONTENT WIDGET

The “Latest from the Blog” section renders empty

The homepage includes a dedicated section pulling in the firm’s most recent blog post. Instead of a title and link, the live markup shows an empty anchor tag with no href and no text — a blank line where a real post preview should be:

```

```

The “View More” link directly beneath it still works and goes to blog.svlg.com, so this isn’t a dead blog — it’s specifically the auto-pulled preview snippet that’s failing to populate. For a firm whose blog is a stated part of their content and SEO strategy, the one spot on the homepage built to showcase it is currently showing nothing.

Findings verified against live page source on the audit date above. Site platform: Justia Elevate.

ZenMasterWorks audits live sites for exactly this kind of thing — the bugs that don’t show up until someone actually looks. Read this audit online, with sources, at <https://www.zenmasterworks.com/audits/audit-silicon-valley-law-group.html>

Request a free audit of your own site: zenmasterworks.com — we build first; you pay only if you love it.